Commander's Report - April 2015

I would like to say thank-you to each and every member of our Squadron. Thanks for being a member, for your efforts in your Squadron and community, and thanks for the opportunity to serve you as the "Commander." Our mission areas are strong; Safe Boating Outreach to the community, education of both members and the general public, setting the highest standards of seamanship, and let's not forget the camaraderie that boaters enjoy when ever they get together. It's not all work. We include a lot of fun activities and get together. Ours is an organization of volunteers, and we do what we can. Together, we can continue as an active and fun Squadron that accomplishes much along the way. Working together, we should even be able to grow.

Taking note of our voluntary nature, I would be remiss if I did not acknowledge the past year's activities of the outgoing Bridge. They did so much to keep the Squadron active. I would also like to again thank Ron Coleman for masterminding our website for so long. He did a great job and is an unsung hero Thanks to Captain Don Woods for taking over the web and I urge all to check-out our new look at dbsps.org. Additionally, kudos to the incoming Bridge, Committees and Auxiliary whose assistance I will certainly depend upon. Thanks in advance.

We're looking forward to another year of safe boating and activity. I urge each and every member to think about how they could: foster additional members, participate in voluntary activities, advance their boating knowledge and become more involved in Squadron activities. There is an old waterfront saying that goes, "The strength of the ship is the sailor, and the strength of the sailor is the ship!" A successful squadron relies on the active engagement of all its members to the extent that they can participate.

Your Bridge and Executive Committee are working for you. If you have any suggestions, or ideas, please contact any of them and pass it on. You've all got my number: Don Roman, m/v Andante, 386-453-6456, or, andanteroman@mac.com

FROM THE COOPERATIVE CHARTING CHAIR ADEO ERNST G HOFMANN, JN

The following info was received from V/R Michael Henderson, NOAA Navigation Manager—S Fla:
( <http://www.nauticalcharts.noaa.gov/staff/news/2015/boaters.html> )

Small craft nautical charts adjust to boaters' needs

Reformatting "pocket-fold" charts, eliminating facilities table

Boaters who use NOAA's small craft charts will notice two changes over the next few years.

Coast Survey is reformatting eleven small-craft charts that had been designed for folding, and will convert them to conventional paper charts as new editions are prepared. NOAA "pocket-fold" nautical charts 11302, 11303, 11314, 11390, 11393, 11402, 11404, 11432, 11433, 18661, and 18662 will retain their chart numbers but will eventually have the look and feel of the 1,026 nautical charts available from NOAA-certified "print-on-demand" agents.

The other change affects all small-craft charts. In recognition of the increasing popularity of smart phones and cruising guides as sources of information about facilities, Coast Survey will drop the facilities table that was historically printed with paper small craft charts and displayed on raster navigational charts (NOAA RNC®). To prevent confusion, cartographers will also remove the corresponding magenta facility numbers from the chart itself.

Not all facilities information is being removed, however. Charted features (as opposed to the text tables) will remain. Additionally, the charts will improve the designation of sewage pump-out facilities, adding a magenta "P" symbol where the pump-outs are located.

When Coast Survey first began providing information about boating facilities, decades ago, boaters traveling long distances had few sources of information about the public services offered by marine facilities. Nowadays, however, up-to-date information is as close as the smart phone in the captain's vest.

"For the past 50 years, NOAA has relied on the diligent reports of thousands of U.S. Power Squadron members to update the facilities tables," said John Nyberg, chief of Coast Survey's Marine Chart Division. "Thousands of members have given us yearly updates on hundreds of boating facilities, and we owe them our appreciation for providing the information we sorely needed."

During the next two years, Coast Survey staff will work with the U.S. Power Squadrons to strengthen the Cooperative Charting Program that facilitates data exchange for chart evaluations and navigational safety.

NOAA cartographers will gradually remove the facilities tables as they update the charts with new data and publish new editions. The process will likely take five years or more.

February 9, 2015

Small-craft chart facility tables will be phased out over the next five years.

Small-craft charts will designate sewage pump-out facilities with a magenta "P" symbol.
